under which Central Asia is now passing. Kuldja, as our readers are aware, is situated in Eastern Turkistan. The town and province bearing this name passed into the hands of Russia some ten or eleven years ago. At that time it was stated that the Muscovite generals took possession of the country provisionally, but Russia seldom gives up what she has once laid her hands on. A few months since the Chinese ventured upon a conflict with the spoiler and recovered Turkistan. Kuldja, however, still remained in the hands of the latter. More recently CHANG-HOW, the Chinese plenipotentiary at St. Petersburg, entered into a treaty by which China should receive back a portion of Kuldja in consideration of the payment of five million roubles. With her usual cunning in matters of diplomacy, the Russians have managed to keep the best part of Kuldja, and to give China the worst. According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Times, Kuldja is the richest of all the Asiatic provinces recently occupied by the Russians. He says that its resources are great, its valleys being productive and fertile, and its mountains abounding in minerals. It is no wonder, considering how fertile and unprofitable the Central Asian possessions of the Czar generally are, that Kuldja should be held on to with so much tenacity.

The Chinese, however, having recovered a portion of their lost territory, are determined to secure the whole. For entering into a treaty, by which the interests of Russia were consulted and those of China sacrificed, CHANG-HOW has been looked upon as the enemy of his country, and a few days since it was reported that he had been impeached. It is not strange that, having beaten the Russians in one encounter, China should come to the conclusion that she is able to do so in another. The Celestial Empire, it is well known, has made wonderful strides in military affairs during the last few years. It has been long apparent that she possesses the material out of which a great military power may be made; and, of late, she has been using that material to the best advantage. Her large naval establishments are turning out ships of war which will rival those of Europe; whilst her armies are being trained on the most approved military principles. In India, and especially in Burma, the influence of China is known to be great, and it is possible that in years to come China may be found to be a greater danger to our Indian Empire than Russia itself. If Russia had no other enemies, it is doubtful whether China would hazard the experiment which she now seems determined to make. Knowing, however, that her forces in the East must be limited, and that those forces must be divided, China has taken the liberty of disregarding the treaty of Peking, and has set before herself the task of winning back her lost possessions. This determination is doubtless the explanation of the telegram published in our issue of Monday.

The renewal of the conflict with China is but one of the responsibilities with which Russia is now saddled in the East. It is well known that she deems herself bound to avenge the defeat which she received at the hands of the Turk-Turcomans last year, but this is not all. It is now no secret that Russia intends to capture Merv. For this expedition she has been making preparations for some months back, and it need hardly be said that if her intentions are to be carried out operations will have to be commenced during the spring. The month of April has been fixed as the time for making a start, and for climatic reasons action is not likely to be delayed much beyond this. Last year the forces that invaded the Turkoman country started from the Caspian, between which and Merv is a distance about seven hundred miles. This year it is said there are to be two divisions, one moving from Chikistan and the other from Samarkand. It was reported a short time back that England and Persia had entered into an agreement to resist a Russian advance on Merv. This report has not been confirmed. It is true, however, that the Khan of Merv has asked the assistance of Great Britain and the Shah against Russian encroachment. No such assistance is likely to be granted. The Turkomans will have to meet the Russians single-handed, and it is announced that Khiva and Bokhara will give their assistance to the latter. Hitherto the Russians have found that the Turkomans are not enemies to be despised. The latter were the victors last year, and if not the victors they may be found able to give a good account of themselves this year. Thus in the Chinese and the Turkomans Russia has already in Central Asia two enemies that may be found to be equal to all her available resources.

The interest of the Chinese and the Turkoman contests, however, grows out of the bearing which they may have on the present war in Afghanistan, and on a possible invasion of India. Merv, it is well known, although a valuable centre, is not sought by Russia for its own sake, nor merely for the sake of the advantage it will give her in dealing with the turbulent races who are gathered round this centre. Merv is on the high way to Herat, from which it is only about 250 miles distant. It is anticipated by alarmists, who attach not only a malignant purpose but a world-wide importance to everything Russia essays, that having reached Merv, General KAUFMAN will pounce upon Afghanistan, and then wage war against India on the one side and Persia on the other. It is declared that ABDURAHMAN, who has become the pretender to the Afghan throne, has started on his expedition by the aid of Russian money and on the faith of Russian promises, and it is predicted that the work which he has begun will be completed by the Russian army in Central Asia. All this, however, amounts to little more than surmise. There is no likelihood that Russia will attempt any evil designs against Great Britain in the East for some time to come, even if she has such designs, and for the simple reason that there are no forces at her command equal to the undertaking. A recent writer in the Times has stated exactly what the Russian forces in the East are. His figures are taken from official statistics. He points out that the total strength of the forces of the Czar in Central Asia cannot be more than 70,000 men and 80 guns. To these may be added 30,000 Bokhara auxiliaries, making altogether about 100,000. For the purposes of garrisoning her large and troublesome possessions in Central Asia, this writer maintains Russia will require at least 60,000 of her 70,000 troops, leaving about 20,000 Russians and a little more than that number of Khivans and Bokharans. At present England has about 70,000 European soldiers in the East besides her large native army. Thus it will be seen that leaving Persia out of the calculation altogether, it would be the wildest of follies for Russia to attempt to move beyond Merv, even if she should be able to deal with the Chinese and the Turkomans as successfully as she anticipates. Russia has too many troubles on her hands to force a war with Great Britain at the present moment. With the Nihilists at home, with Austria and Germany against her in Europe, and with enemies already in the field, to whom she may prove herself unequal, she is hardly likely to have the foolhardiness to risk a quarrel with England just now, whatever she may do hereafter.

During the present week the House has approved the plans and sections of two important railway extensions, the first being from Narrandera to Hay, and the second from Tamworth to Tenterfield, through Armidale. The line of action followed by the Government in the two cases has been somewhat different; in the former the recommendations of the officers who reported upon the various routes have been followed, in the latter they have been departed from. This is a little remarkable since some of the arguments for going south of the Murrumbidgee are similar to those which have been urged for taking the Tenterfield line, by way of Armidale. It has been said, for example, that the whole country south of the Murrumbidgee is thickly populated, while on the northern side there will not be a single station from Narrandera to Hay. The advocates for the Armidale route have urged something like the same plea; they have contended that Armidale is a considerable place, and that if the line is not taken to the town a great many people will be injured, if not ruined. By going to Armidale the distance is increased some seven miles, yet local considerations have prevailed in the north while they have been disregarded in the south. The reason for this slightly inconsistent policy has not been very fully explained. Whether the Government have been misled by a report from the north than from the south, or whether political influence is stronger in the one case than in the other does not appear. Doubtless the reasons urged for touching so important a town as Armidale are strong, but if such reasons were to be generally applied the making of trunk lines would be impossible. Whatever may be said of the determination to go to Armidale there will be no serious difference of opinion as to the route by which the line is to be taken to Hay. No doubt there would be some advantages in taking the Southern route, but if the district between the Murrumbidgee and the Macintyre is to be reached it should be by a branch line. We are glad to find that the construction of such a line is in contemplation. The chief considerations that should determine the direction in which the South-Western line should be continued, are the tapping of the district to the Lachlan and the Lower Darling and the formation of a new line that may hereafter connect this colony with South Australia. The taking of the line to Hay must of necessity bring to Sydney much of the trade that has long gone to Melbourne, and this is an argument for the extension which cannot be overlooked.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Our cable messages of this morning have reference almost exclusively to the British Parliamentary elections. The result so far is in favour of the Liberals, and has caused profound surprise. The issue in our special correspondence is the question of the direction which the elections are taking. It is said that the hope of the Tories is already destroyed, and it is expected that the Opposition party will have a majority of over thirty. The Marquis of Hartington and the Earl of Granville are named for the Premiership, and Mr. Gladstone will have portfolio in the new Ministry. The city of London, by its vote, has not changed the relative positions of parties, having again returned three Conservatives and one Liberal.

Ten mails for the United Kingdom, Continent of Europe, India, and the East, per P. and O. Company's steamship Siam, will be made up at the Sydney Post Office, for transmission overland to Melbourne, on Saturday, April 10, at the hours specified in a notification in another column. According to the official timetable, both of the April mails, by the Suez route, will be made up on a Saturday, the second dispatch being on April 24. After this, they will be made up as heretofore, on every alternate Tuesday, commencing Tuesday.

A meeting of the committee of the Irish Distress Relief Fund was held yesterday in the Town Hall. Present: Mr. P. A. Jennings, C.M.G. (in the chair); Mr. W. H. Murray, Mr. R. Fowler, J.P., Messrs. J. P. Garvan, John G. O'Ryan, Thomas Buchanan, Alderman Chapman, J.P.; Alderman Hodgson, John T. Tobey, Mr. Daniel O'Connor, M.L.A. The total amount received yesterday, £150, was £124 8s. from Greatfall, per the A.J.S. Bank; £27 10s. proceeds of the concert in the Masonic Hall, per Mr. M. J. Fitzpatrick; and £5 5s. from the Hon. Sir John Robertson, K.C.M.G.; £13 0s. 9d. from Colonel C. F. Roberts and the W. of the New South Wales Artillery Brigade, per Colonel Roberts; £25 4s. from Mr. Foster, per Mr. W. F. Redmond, besides some small amounts.

We are informed by Mr. Hugh Kennedy, B.A., Registrar Sydney University, that the following have passed the examination for the Civil Service—Barry, Bell, Buckley, Burnett, Butler, Clarke, Dixon, Fitzgerald, A. Gale, Halligan, Hascock, Huxton, Hooper, and others. The total number of successful candidates was 484. The examination was held at the A.J.S. Bank, £27 10s. proceeds of the concert in the Masonic Hall, per Mr. M. J. Fitzpatrick; and £5 5s. from the Hon. Sir John Robertson, K.C.M.G.; £13 0s. 9d. from Colonel C. F. Roberts and the W. of the New South Wales Artillery Brigade, per Colonel Roberts; £25 4s. from Mr. Foster, per Mr. W. F. Redmond, besides some small amounts.

At the Easter Tuesday meeting held at St. John's Darlinghurst, the following resolution was passed: "That all seats not occupied when the clergyman enters the reading desk, be at the disposal of the churchwardens." This system has been at work now for some months on trial, and has been found practically to obviate the difficulty of providing strangers with seats.

CONSPIRACY AT WOOLLAHRA. While complaining of the great inconvenience the inhabitants of that suburb are subjected to in consequence of the late postal delivery, both morning and evening. Instead of getting their letters at 9.30 a.m. and at 2 p.m., as the residents of Paddington do, the Woollahra people do not receive theirs before 12 noon and at 4 in the afternoon, sometimes later.

At 9 a.m., yesterday, rain set in and continued steadily until midday, when the clouds partially cleared away. Later in the afternoon the sky was again obscured with clouds, and one or two light showers fell. As night set in the sky once more became clear, but the city was enveloped in a rather dense fog all night.

Owing to the heavy and continuous rain which fell yesterday morning, the committee of the Australian Jockey Club decided to postpone the running for yesterday's events until to-day and to carry out to-day's programme on Monday.

A "violin to Randwick" complains of the unsatisfactory way in which the numbers of the horses starting in each race are shown. Not until the horses are out, and sometimes even not until they are starting, are the names put up. He thinks this ought to be remedied, and the starters numbered nearly half-an-hour before each race. Moreover, he thinks the numbers should remain hoisted till the race is over, when they could be lowered, and the winning numbers substituted.

About a fortnight ago the Municipal Council began the re-formation of that part of Pitt-street, lying between Bridge-street and the railway, and the work is being done at a rapid pace. The old surface of the street has been partly laid. The work is "progressing apace," and judging by what has been done, the entire distance, perhaps rather more than fifty yards, will be completed within six weeks or two months. In the meantime the omnibuses and vehicles which usually traverse this route, have to diverge by way of Spitts-street or by Bridge and George streets. It has been suggested that the municipal stroke should be quickened, so that the comparatively narrow thoroughfare in this part of the city may be again available, at no distant date for the immense and growing traffic which has to be accommodated. When the Town Clerk advertised two or three weeks ago that this short piece of one of the most important thoroughfares in the city was to be blocked up for repair, many thought the job would have been done in as many hours as it has already taken days.

This complete list of the judges' recommendations, in reference to the exhibits in the Ladies' Court, is published in another column. The Exhibition Commissioners decided yesterday that the children attending schools in any part of the colony should be permitted to visit the Exhibition free of charge, on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays in each week until the close of the Exhibition.

The third of the series of quarterly drawings initiated by the Sydney Tramway and Omnibus Company took place yesterday morning at the office of the company, King-street. It was drawn by His Worship the Mayor, in presence of several of the directors and the shareholders. In future, the company will draw the quarterly drawings at the office of the company, King-street. The original list of the quarterly drawings, the withdrawal of the Newtown and Petersham lines having curtailed the business of the company. This is in effect no reduction in the value of the lottery. The following is the list of this quarter's prizes—No. 1, D 800538, £20; 2, D 588715, £10; 3, D 71257, £5; 4, D 638481, £5; 5, D 15317, £5; 6, D 173977, £2; 7, D 93727, £2; 8, D 90209, £2; 9, D 50138, £1; 10, D 31137, £1; 11, D 670789, £1; 12, D 587909, £1; 13, D 148826, £1; 14, D 159335, £1; 15, D 59428, £1; 16, D 580313, £1; 17, D 825429, £1; 18, D 710018, £1; 19, D 464225, £1; 20, D 416716, £1; 21, D 910197, £1; 22, D 959452, £1; 23, D 560870, £1; 24, D 567338, £1; 25, D 567338, £1; 26, D 700899, £1; 27, D 248093, £1; 28, D 19808, £1; 29, D 988335, £1; 30, D 980842, £1; 31, D 971709, £1; 32, D 916138, £1; 33, D 580212, £1; 34, D 689897, £1.

A public meeting was held at Uralia on the 27th March, for the purpose of considering certain matters connected with the gold-fields regulations. At this meeting Messrs. Copeland and Barbour, M.L.A.s, were present. The following resolutions were carried: "That this meeting be held with a view to the formation of a committee for the purpose of considering the matters connected with the gold-fields regulations. That the Secretary for Mines has granted a large portion of the Rookly River gold-fields to certain parties under the 27th and 28th clauses of the Mining Act of 1874, by which Act he abolishes the gold-field, and renders every miner liable to fine for trespass, and hereby determines to take immediate action by having the matter brought before the Legislative Assembly. That a committee, consisting of the following, be appointed to carry out the foregoing resolution:—Richard Roberts, John Edmond, Frederick M'Leod, H. West, W. Tuggart, and J. Clendinning." During the discussion of these resolutions there was a warm altercation between Mr. Copeland, J.P., and Mr. Copeland.

On Tuesday next, an opportunity will be afforded to pastoralists and agriculturists of witnessing a competition to be held at the Agricultural Hall, for the purpose of testing the efficiency of various machines, such as ploughs, cultivators, and reapers. The machines to be entered are those of Messrs. Fowler and Co.'s steam ploughing, cultivating, and reaping machinery, on the farm of Mr. Edward Cowler, M.L.A., Glanville, near Bathurst. Messrs. Fowler's machinery, which during its stay in the Agricultural Hall of the Exhibition attracted a considerable share of attention, was displayed at the same place to the West and is now at Glanville, under the care of Mr. Walter Nokes, the representative of the firm, who thoroughly understands steam cultivation. The trial of the earth scoop, a very powerful machine, should clearly illustrate the usefulness of steam in the excavation of ditches and tanks in the colony; and farmers will be surprised to find that the steam plough is so efficient a cultivator as Australian soil. For the convenience of residents of the metropolis, who may desire to be present at the trial, arrangements have been made for an excursion train to start on Monday, at 11.45 p.m., from the Redfern station.

Mr. G. R. Maclean writes, denying the statement, made at the Trades and Labour Council on Thursday night, that he went about the city taking the "riff-raff" to attend the recent meeting at the Masonic Hall, to hear the controversy between Messrs. Reid and Buchanan. He also desires us to call attention to an announcement in our advertising columns to the effect that Mr. Buchanan will re-deliver his Victoria Lecture, address on Friday next, at the Temperance Hall.

An interesting meeting was held, at Milson's Point, North Shore, on Wednesday evening, in the new Mission Church, recently built in that locality by the Presbyterians, under the ministrations of the Rev. R. McKinnon. The object of the meeting was formally to open the building; the site for which was kindly granted by Mr. Talbot. The proceedings commenced by the singing of an appropriate hymn, and offering of prayer; after which the Rev. R. McKinnon administered the sacrament of baptism. The choir, under the direction of Mr. J. Anderson, who has taken an active part in the erection of the church, sang several sacred pieces. Mr. Joseph Paxton, with taste and expression, gave two sacred solos, which met with great applause from the people assembled. The hymn, "O God, we praise thee," was sung by the choir, and Mr. McKinnon delivered addresses on topics suited to the occasion. Major Robinson has generously presented an American organ for the use of the church.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Council of the Borough of Petersham was called for the 30th ultimo. There were present—Aldermen Barrell, Golding, Pile, and Hughes. A quorum not being present, the meeting lapsed.

The coroner commenced an inquest on the remains of a man named John Henry Barker, at his office, yesterday. The deceased had expired in the infirmary yesterday morning, into which institution he was admitted on Sunday last, suffering from bruises on the head, occasioned by a fall down the hold of the ship Macedon. The inquest was adjourned for a week until that ship should again come to port.

This annual Easter gathering in connection with the united parishes of Prospect, Seven Hills, and Blackmore, took place on the pastures ground on Monday last. The children attending Sunday-schools at these three places, together with their teachers and many of their friends, assembled for service at 10 o'clock, in a spacious booth erected for the occasion. The incumbent of the parish (the Rev. R. R. Eya) delivered a very appropriate and impressive address, at the conclusion of which a hymn was sung, and the young folk took themselves to the various games provided for their amusement. At 12.15 the children, who numbered 180, were assembled in the booth to partake of an excellent repast; and when their wants were fully satisfied, the adults were invited to take their seats at the table. At intervals during the meal several ladies sang songs, and the effect was very pleasing. The joyous Easter festival seemed to gladden the hearts of both old and young, and throughout the afternoon the cheerful countenances and merry laughter gave evidence of the success attending the efforts of those who sought to amuse. It was a bright and sunny day, and the ground, which was a grassy ground, with flags, presented a gay and pleasing aspect as the people, who in all numbered upwards of 850, either took part in the games or gathered themselves together into little groups to discuss the leading events of the day, or strolled at leisure to have their early noon. At 4.30 the children were assembled for tea, and afterwards the adults. At the conclusion of the meal a hymn was sung, and the incumbent addressed a few appropriate remarks to the assembly, who, after singing the doxology, began to disperse about 7 o'clock, well satisfied with the day's enjoyment which had been provided for them. On Easter Tuesday the annual vestry meetings were held at each of the three places—Prospect, Seven Hills, and Blackmore. At each of these meetings the vestry members presented a list of the names of the persons who had been elected to the various offices of the church, and the results of the election were very satisfactory.

A TELEGRAM from Wagga Wagga states that Mr. Corner, assistant master of the Public School, was presented with an address and testimonial, on Thursday, from his pupils prior to his leaving for Tumbarumba school.

THE MARSHALLS DESTRUCTION ACT in Queensland has expired, and it is likely to be renewed. The simple reason is that the Queenslanders do not feel inclined to pay for the extermination of these pests for the benefit of New South Wales. From a letter written by Mr. H. Broken, of Warrego station, Queensland, to Mr. W. Walker, of Tenterfield, and forwarded by the latter gentleman to us, we learn that, "up to February last, 301,455 marshallas were destroyed since the passing of the Act, for which £2187 was paid. Of this large number at least 60,000 came across from New South Wales." Both gentlemen write strongly in favour of the introduction of a similar Act in New South Wales, so that both colonies may be enabled to get rid of all time of this nuisance.

The friends of the Rev. J. M. Ross, Agent and General Secretary of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales, will be glad to hear that Mr. Joseph Patton recently telegraphed announcing his safe arrival at Melbourne yesterday morning by the Orient Company's steamer Siam. He leaves at noon, to-day, for Sydney.

A STRANGE case (as reported in the Independent) came before the Magistrate Bench a few days ago. A man named James Walsh announced his son, Sarah, back for saying, "You ill-use your child wrong, and allow your wife to ill-use her; such treatment is the talk of the town." Messrs. Brown and Plunkett filed the childing sister £1 and costs.

With regard to the suspension of Colonel St. Hill, as commander of the volunteers in Tasmania, the Commercial Chronicle of the 24th March furnishes the following particulars relative to the matter: "When Colonel St. Hill assumed the position of private secretary to his Excellency, an account was opened at the Commercial Bank, Hobart Town, which was known as the Number 2 account. It was in Colonel St. Hill's name, and was operated upon solely by him. The money paid to the credit of that account comprised the maintenance of the volunteers' establishment, and as private secretary, and other private moneys of the colonel, besides sundry official sums. This account was allowed to become considerably overdrawn without the knowledge of his Excellency, and when Colonel St. Hill was on a visit to Melbourne, we believe in November last, the report of the bank to his Excellency was sent. The Governor was much surprised at this, and immediately communicated in person with the banker, the result being that he made good the amount of the deficiency, and almost immediately suspended Colonel St. Hill from his office as private secretary. The report of Colonel St. Hill, as private secretary, was sent to his Excellency, and we are informed the colonel demanded an audit of his accounts. An officer of the audit department was appointed to go through them, and although we have no means of knowing the result accurately, we believe it is a fact, as reported, that the debt against Colonel St. Hill was found to be about £1,000. Colonel St. Hill was dismissed from his office as private secretary, and Mr. George Browne was afterwards appointed in his stead. But Colonel St. Hill remained commander of volunteers, and it was generally understood that some satisfactory arrangement had been arrived at for the liquidation of his liability to the Governor, but it appears that his Excellency has recently reported the matter to the Hon. General, and that on the 19th March he has been formally charged against Colonel St. Hill to the Executive Council."

A serious gun accident is reported in the Goulburn Herald. It appears that as Mr. Joseph Gillespie and a friend were near the shore of Lake Bathurst in a boat from which they had been shooting wild fowl, Mr. Gillespie seized a bird in close proximity, seized his gun by the muzzle, and the law of the gun was fired. His intention being to add another victim to those they had already killed. The gun was double-barrelled, one of the barrels being empty. The hammer of the other barrel was down close on the nipple, which was capped. In pulling the gun from under the seat of the boat something catching the hammer lifted it, the consequence being that when released it fell on the trigger, and the gun went off. The charge passed between Mr. Gillespie's left arm and side. Only a few of the shot entered the arm, but the force of the powder burst the flesh nearly from the wrist to the elbow, and materially injured the muscles. The sleeve of the coat was also set on fire, and the wounded man had to immerse his arm in lake to extinguish the fire. Mr. Gillespie was at once brought to Goulburn, and is progressing as favourably as possible.

EARLY on Monday morning (the Newcastle Chronicle reports) a daring case of sacrilege was discovered to have been committed at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Newcastle. Upon one of the clerical men entering the edifice, it was found that two massive silver chalices, used in connection with religious service, and valued at £25, had been stolen by some person or persons unknown. The chalices had been seen in the church between 1 and 2 o'clock on Easter Sunday, and it is supposed that some miscreant must have concealed himself in the building during the day, for no appearance of a forcible or other entrance could be traced. This is confirmed by the fact of the front door—which is usually kept locked by the sexton—being found open in the morning.

The Albany Border Post says:—"The local bench have commenced to exercise their power as regards the penalty now incurred by all persons who under the Act render themselves liable to be deemed habitual drunkards. Captain Brownrigg, in sentencing a man who had been convicted of drunkenness no less than three times in the last three months' imprisonment, said he had awarded the full penalty laid down by the Act, in order to protect the offender against himself; perhaps when he had served his time he would have gained sufficient strength of mind to abstain from indulgence."

The following outrage upon Mr. George Ellis, of Bathurst, is related in the Border Post. "In consequence of having procured certain of their number for theft, Mr. Ellis incurred the illwill of certain lordly Fijians, who determined to 'sauna' the matter in the good old fashion. They therefore left their town, and to the number of 17 proceeded to a spot near to the residence of Mr. Ellis, when one was sent forward to a messenger to invite a conference as to the cause of the quarrel. The messenger, who was a Fijian, followed his treacherous guide to where his fellows were waiting, and while speaking to one received a blow on the back of the neck from a ulua, or short-hand club, which fell him to the earth, and when down he was severely 'battered' or, to use the Fijian phrase, 'he was killed.' Time, after giving a promise of better things, seems like London Society and the Argosy, to be chiefly going in for "serials." This is to the great mystery of modern magazine. Why—unless for some tasteless occupation to a vacant mind—should people read novels "by inch-meal"? It is like asking why people eat half-hour, instead of sitting down at a meal. Of course, the waste is a common one, and by no means confined to silly people. We regret it less on account of the loss of time to the readers than because it tends to lower the quality of the fiction which enters so largely into the intellectual diet of the public. The unity of a novel—its completeness as a whole—can hardly fail to suffer when the effect of each portion detached from the rest has to be studied and reckoned on.

The Temple Bar has a large allowance of fiction, but relieved by several other good articles. There is an amusing memoir of Lady Morgan, entitled after her successful tale, "The Wild Irish Girl." The anecdote of the dancing-master, who, finding Miss Owsen and her sister weeping over the clamorous demand of an unpaid landlady, brought in his aid, and danced all parties into good humour, is a fine illustration of the story of her good nature. Mr. Morgan, whom, for some time past their engagement, she tormented by her constant tears and caprices, "O Glorvina," said Lady Abercorn, whose companion she had been through a round of Dublin gaieties, "come up stairs and be married. There must be no more delay!" The sudden summons uttered in a severe tone, startled her out of all resistance, and she never had cause to repent her husband's impetuous and sympathetic behaviour.

Charles Morgan made her a kind and sympathetic husband, and gave her the love which is the basis of literary unions. Little less celebrated than those of the Argosy, we can remember her in her

In the January number of Harper's Magazine there is an article headed "Compulsory Education in Brooklyn." It tells of the attendance of every child of school age—which, by the-by, is from eight to fourteen years—at a certain school. It also tells of the Committee on Attendance, who seem to have very much more power than our boards of education. They have the right to require every child to attend to their school duties to our trust officers, and they have forced schools known as attendance schools for bad boys expelled from the public schools. They have the right to require every child to be brought for fourteen weeks, and at the end of that time they require a certificate entitling them to readmission into the public schools. If a child is absent from school, they have the right to advise the parents to take the child to the school, or to solve properly at the attendance school, or fail to attend regularly, they are sent to an institution called the Trust School for Boys. The law is just as a reformer would wish it varying from fourteen weeks to one year, and forced to pay sufficient attention to their duties.

PURVISERS.—Wax. R. B. WOMAN'S HAIR.—Wax. This is a new product in pink paper wrappings; never fails to restore gray hair to the youthful color, imparting to the hair a softness and brilliancy that is not to be obtained through ordinary brushing processes. It is not a dye. It gives pure blonde, auburn, or chestnut tints, and is equally effective in restoring colorance as established throughout the world. BRUCEDALE AND PINE HILL ESTATE
The most extensive FREEHOLD ESTATE EVER OFFERED for SALE in the BATHURST DISTRICT.

J. F. CLEMENTS is favoured with instructions from the Proprietors to offer for PRIVATE SALE the above well-known exceedingly valuable estate, upon which many thousands of pounds were judiciously expended by the late W. H. Suttor, Esq., whose residence was Brucedale for more than 50 years. His undoubted practical character and almost unequalled experience in all the great interests of AUSTRALIAN LIFE, should be a sufficient guarantee that these properties were thoroughly well chosen in their early selections, and adapted by subsequent improvements to the requirements of an AUSTRALIAN COUNTRY GENTLEMAN'S HOME.

It is now proposed to offer the TWO ESTATES IN ONE, of 5000 acres, more or less, splendidly watered, well-grassed slopes and richest alluvial flats.

BUCELALE, the original estate, consists of 1200 acres, more or less, of which about 320 acres are of the richest alluvial soil. The remainder not to be excelled for sheep pasturage. It has been

THREE IS FRONTAGE to the Winburndale and Clear Creeks of more than three miles. There are 13 PADDOCKS, which are fenced and sheep-proof. There are 50 acres of lucerne, and 25 imported grasses.

The STABLES is suitably arranged for everyday and stud purposes—15 stalls, with loose boxes, coach and buggy house; in fact, all requirements for a very large establishment.

The PINE HILL ESTATE consists of 5230 acres, more or less, and is within five miles of Bathurst, and separated from Brucedale only by Winburndale Creek, well watered and splendidly timbered.

Extensive stabling, coachhouse, and ~~harrys~~ room; in fact, all requirements.

Garden—Fruit and ornamental trees, shrubs, and flowers of choice varieties in abundance.

To capitalists inclined to secure a fire/homedead property in one of the most delightfully health-giving climates in the world, the undersigned would specially recommend a visit of inspection. Coupled with extensive pastoral pursuits, it would be invaluable as a denot for fat stock. As an investment, an EXCELLENT RENT ROLL can be secured AT ONCE.

For all particulars, cards to view &c., apply to
JOHN F. CLEMENTS.

NORTH ANNANDALE

Land, Stock, and Station Agent, Bathurst.
